

OUR WEEKLY FASHION LETTER

A TIMELY REVIEW OF THE LATEST MODES (Special) By JUDIC CHOLLET

Embroidered linen shoes are very fashionable at present for young children. They are usually worked in a design of roses and forgetmenots, in wash silk, and the straps fastened with small crocheted buttons.

CORSELET BODICE.

Little shoes, the fastening straps being composed of narrow scalloped bands of linen secured with embroidery buttons.

Never wear one pair of shoes all the times unless obliged to do so. Two pairs of boots worn a day at a time alternately give more service and are much more healthful.

As a natural and necessary result of pinching, caused by wearing boots and shoes of a size too small, the foot becomes deformed and larger than it would naturally grow, with enlarged joints, the toes turned from a line parallel with the foot, to say nothing of the troublesome corns so annoying and crippling.

The bodice seen in the cut is arranged for a corselet skirt and may be carried out in silk or any of the newer wash materials of the season. The velvet ribbon is easily removed when the waist is sent to the laundry.

SOME STYLES IN HATS.

Leghorn hats are more popular than they have been for some years. Neapolitan is a favorite, a chip is very modish, and a host of other braids, new and old, have important places in the millinery world.

Nuttier and wattleau models are among the fashionable hats of the season.

CHECKED TAFFETA GOWN.

The lingerie hat is worn, but it is not so modish as it was last summer and appears mostly on the heads of wee tots.

A charmingly pretty afternoon dress of hyacinth blue voile is made with a circular skirt shirred on cords about the hips. At the foot it is trimmed with three cord folds a shade deeper. Like folds border the blouse, which is worn over an underblouse of cream batiste in all over English embroidery effect.

Small boys are wearing khaki suits with ties of bright colored surah.

Tiny parasols come for automobile use. They are not unlike the small carriage parasol.

The gown pictured is of red and white checked taffeta. About the bottom of the skirt are deep tucks. The bolero gathered from a shallow yoke has collar, cuffs and bands of plain white taffeta trimmed with red braid in Greek key pattern. The girde and collar knot are of black.

FOR THE YOUNGSTERS.

Cotton beige suiting looks very like wool and is used for jaunty little run-about suits.

Bandanna handkerchiefs make picturesque headresses for wear with bathing suits and completely hide the unsightly rubber cap.

The very latest bathing suits are cut all in one, then plaited in about the waist and hips like the princess gowns. A stunning shirt waist suit is made of white satin faced silk, with coin dots of black at intervals of five inches. A touch of color is given by a pale pink empire girde.

Tatting is a modish trimming for children's and grownups' morning dresses.

One of the novelties of the season is the wearing of a quiet gown with bright lined accessories. A woman in a shepherd's plaid suit, for instance, will wear a red hat, girde and hand bag, while a white gowned young woman will array herself in a necktie of parrot green, with hat and parasol to match.

The tailored blouse for a small boy pictured is a neat model carried out in heavy white linen. Collar, side strip and cuffs are of red and white linen cut on the bias.

GEMS AND JEWELS.

Rumor, which had its birth in Paris, declares that large and long earrings will be worn. Collarless gowns, broad turnover collars with no standing band and fchus in all shapes and all manner of fineness predominate in the summer fashions, but a long expanse of bare throat, ending in a plain turndown linen collar or a tiny frill, is not universally becoming, so that the earring, it seems, will be an absolutely necessary adjunct to the summer gown.

Some of the latest and most effective collars are made of a very bright yellow gold, with richly decorated outlines, set with sapphires in panels connected by gold loops and chains. Gold filigree bracelets are also a novelty borrowed from old times, with gem set panels between the chains. The favorite ornament of the debutante this season is the single string of pearls that forms a necklace, but for daytime wear pendants of most artistic designs are worn upon invisible platinum chains or very slender gold ones.

Very Parisian and smart is the empire gown illustrated. Pink radium silk of the best quality is employed. A decidedly novel feature is the wide sash of the same silk beaded with a deep line of lace. It over face makes the crossed field effect. The puffed sleeves are cut up very high at the outer edge and trimmed with frills of deep lace. Mull makes the chemisette and high collar.
